

Sex Trivia

FACT....Sex toys pre-date written history! This means that before the pen there was the plaything!

Everyday, 200 million couples around the world have sex, which is about over 2000 couples at any given moment.

In ancient Greece and Rome, dildos were made out of animal horns, gold, silver, ivory and glass.

Women are most likely to want to have sex when they're ovulating.

The Egyptian "Ankh" is actually a symbol made up of the male and female sex organs, representing eternal life.

Fellatio ranks as the number one sexual act desired by heterosexual men.

While nudity was considered commonplace to the ancient Greeks, a man was considered indecent if he had an exposed erection.

A man's penis not only shrinks during cold weather but also from nonsexual excitement like when his favorite football team scores a touchdown, etc.

The word "gymnasium" comes from the Greek word gymnazein which means to exercise naked, which often was done in ancient Greece.

Women with a college degree, when asked, said they were more receptive to anal sex than women without college educations.

The word avocado comes from the Spanish word aguacate which is derived from the Aztec word ahuacati which means testicle.

Women who went to college are more likely to enjoy both giving and receiving oral sex than high school dropouts. (Amazing what one learns in college!)

About 1% of the adult female population are able to achieve orgasm solely through breast stimulation.

14% of males said that they did not enjoy sex the first time.
60% of females say they did not enjoy sex the first time.

Humans, fish and porpoises share a common sexual practice ~ fellatio!

The word pornography comes from the Greek meaning the “writings of prostitutes.”

In Ancient Greece, women would expose their vaginas to ward off storms at sea.

Both humans and porpoises have one social sex practice in common ~ group sex!

The left testicle usually hangs lower than the right for right-handed men. The opposite is true for lefties.

Honking of car horns for a couple that just got married is an old superstition to insure great sex.

The most successful X-rated movie of all time is “Deep Throat” ~ It cost approximately $25,000 to make and has earned more than $600 million!

Ancient Egyptians inserted stones into their vagina to prevent pregnancy. (It worked kind of like the modern IUD by preventing implantation.)

In Medieval France unfaithful wives were made to chase a chicken through town while naked.

Napoleon’s penis was sold to an American Urologist for $40,000!

The male fetus is capable of attaining an erection during the last trimester.

According to the Kinsey Institute, half of the men raised on farms have had a sexual encounter with an animal.

Among sexually active adults, lesbians have the lowest incidence of sexually transmitted diseases.

Casanova boasted that he made love to the same woman twelve times in one day.

The same chemical responsible for the ecstatic highs of love and sexual attraction, phenylethylamine, is also found in chocolate.

Seventy percent of women would rather have chocolate than sex. (Poll taken in an 1995 popular women’s magazine.)

8.5 billion condoms are produced every year worldwide.

Graham crackers were once believed (and in some cases used) to reduce sexual arousal and desire.

The Romans would crush a first time rapist’s gonads between two stones.

Up until 1884, a Victorian-era woman could be sent to prison for denying a husband sex.

Taking the act of adultery to very painful heights, the Serni of Bazil take a guilty wife, whip her and then expose the wounds to fire ants.

The Asiatic Huns punished convicted male rapists and adulterers with castration.

During the Middle Ages, if you were guilty of bestiality you'd be burned at the stake, along with the other party of your crime.

Eating the heart of a male Partridge was the cure for impotence in ancient Babylon.

The hymen is named after the Greek God Hymenaeus ~ the God of marriage and weddings.

Dr. Kellogg introduced Kellogg's Corn Flakes in hopes that it would reduce masturbation.

When a Hawaiian woman wears a flower over her left ear, it means that she is not available.

Cleopatra invented her own diaphragm from camel dung.

“Thrilling, penetrating, invigorating! All the pleasures of youth will throb within you!”
~An ad from a needlework magazine dated 1906!